Appointment Cancellation Policies:

Late Cancel or No Show for appointments are NEVER covered by insurance and you will be charged full fees as described above.

Failure to keep a scheduled appointment without 48 hours advance notice, not including weekends and holidays, will result in a full fee charge due from you at your next appointment. There are to be NO cancellations of appointments via e.mail from Friday through Mondays, inclusive. These 'no cancel or late' cancellations will never be billed to your insurance company but are your FULL responsibility.

Payment Policies:

- Payment is expected at the time of service for all self-pay clients. Credit card payments are also accepted. If your credit card is rejected twice, you will be billed $30 per rejected charge and you will be expected to pay cash at the time of service on all subsequent appointments.
- Insurance deductibles and coinsurances are due at the time of service. Payments can be made by cash in the exact amount or check made payable to: Virginia D. Reiber Ph.D.
- Appointments cancelled without 48 hours notice as addressed above will be billed to the patient. To give adequate notice for a Monday appointment you must cancel the preceding Thursday. Charges for missed appointments or late cancellations must be paid in full at the next appointment.

Health Insurance:

Please check with your insurer to determine policy limits, co-payments and co-insurance amounts, deductibles, and whether your insurance coverage for behavioral health has a "preferred provider panel" in which a provider must participate in order to be directly paid by the insurer. Many insurers cover behavioral health services on an "out of network” basis, and the coinsurance amounts will be at an “out-of-network” level, different from the “in-network” amount.

Your insurance benefit relationship is a “direct contract” between you and your insurer. Therefore you are responsible for knowing the number of sessions (or dollar amount) your policy covers, if pre-authorization is required, and at what level Dr. Reiber is covered under your insurance. Make sure that you receive the benefit description in writing, and bring it with you at your first appointment. Dr. Reiber will assist you to understand your responsibility in this part of your treatment.

Thank you for your attention to this process.
